"MENTAL HEALTH" A Sinister Marxist Weapon!

Republished from Economic Council Letter
No. 437—National Economic Council Inc.,
Empire State Bldg. New York, N.Y.

In the ideological war being waged for the minds of free men, a technique for compelling conformity in an individual's political beliefs, social attitudes and personal tastes has been worked out by the social scientists and "human engineers" and is already in operation. It masquerades under the misnomer "MENTAL HEALTH"—not "MENTAL ILLNESS" which is a more demonstrable term. A significant number of its proponents have extreme radical records (records of subversive affiliations as defined in government reports), or have taken the Fifth Amendment rather than discuss their Communist Party membership.

This Marxist apparatus is now entrenched in every State of the Union with separate units in many counties and even municipalities (some 400 separate entities at this writing). It is backed by powerful influences in the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare and the latter's National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda, Md. It is supplemented by an impressive array of national and international anthropologists, psychologists, psychiatrists and social planners in general, cooperating with a world-wide organization within which other dedicated Marxists are at work.

As with so many groups which have lent themselves in the past to propaganda activities of doubtful value or even of detriment to U.S. citizens, the mental health movement has drawn in dozens of big names in the advertising and business fields. By using such names, the mental health groups proceed to run State and national campaigns for financial support from the average unsuspecting contributor. With this money the mental health elite then proceed to press for the State and Federal legislation necessary for the accomplishment of their goals.

What indeed is the definition of "mental health"? Edith M. Stern, writing in Mental Illness—A Guide for the Family makes this admission: "The legal definition of 'insanity' does not accord with modern medical conceptions of mental illness. . . . Scientifically there is no such thing as absolute mental health; there are degrees of physical health and physical illness."

Or as Henry A. Bowman says in The

Channing Tobias (Negro)

Tobias is an Asst. Treasurer of the NAACP with at least 50 Communist-front listings. He too was one of the "birds-of-a-feather" at the Scientific and Cultural Conference for World Peace at the Waldorf-Astoria applauding Dr. Schreiber.

Nature of Mental Health: "Mental Health is also a matter of degree. There is no hard and fast line between health and illness."

In other words, mental health is a moving target. As used today by professional propagandists, the definition is loosely designed so that they may extend their field to limitless operations. In fact one large, expensive brochure on The Meaning of Mental Health actually lists the aims of the organization which publishes it as: "To improve mental health of the people including treatment, rehabilitation, preven-

Patriots Observe U.S. Day October 23rd

United States Day stands for all that is good in our nation's history and can be opposed by none except the enemies of America.

It is an opportune time to reawaken our people to the fundamental principles underlying our nation's greatness and to the influences that are working as termites to undermine the very foundations of our inherent, God-given rights.

Our Constitutional form of government and our Christian ideals are being deliberately undermined and alien ideologies pressed upon the American people. A great many of the principles of Socialism and Communism have already been adopted in this country, by Acts of Congress, by the Supreme Court, and the Executive branch of government; and many more are being promoted by leading personalities. There is a strong possibility that many more will become law unless checked. Do we want this? Study the history of every nation, past and present, that has adopted Socialism, Communism, or any other form of Statism, and see the tragic end! Who among our leaders today are favoring Socialistic laws or are soft toward Communism and other forms of subversion? Will Americans continue to follow such leadership?

The federal government now controls over 40% of the land of the United States and is engaged in over 700 enterprises in competition with free enterprise. The number is constantly increasing. Do the American people know the extent to which the federal government now interferes with their personal, social, domestic, and economic life? United States Day programs throughout the nation could help to inform them and perhaps cause a return to the form of government established by our Constitution.

By Executive agreements and treaties with other nations, many of the rights and privileges of the American citizen have been surrendered contrary to the intent of the Founding Fathers. Under present practices and judicial interpretations our most basic rights could be given away with

cluding treatment, rehabilitation, prevention and education."

In establishing the norms for "mental health," what kind of persons are in key positions? The names appearing on letterheads and publications of some of the leading mental health organizations provide a clue. They range from persons involved in Communist Party activities to leaders in the United World Federalists and Americans for Democratic Action. For example, the letterhead of the National Mental Health Committee, 1129 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington 5, D.C., carries a paragraph:

"Through a broad educational campaign, to create understanding and support of the 10-point Bill of Rights for the mentally ill adopted by the 1954 National Governors' Conference on Mental Health. To convince the American people to actively support federal, state and local preventive mental health programs emphasizing research, training and expanded clinic and community services designed to treat and cure mental illness in its early stages."

Obviously the intent is not to prevent mental health but to prevent mental illness. But behind the confusion in terms it may well be suspected is a powerful transmission belt by which dedicated Marxists are already feeding their propaganda to the Governors of all our States. As to Marxist influences at work, the letterhead lists the name of Dr. Julius Schreiber. Dr. Schreiber was questioned before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in 1954 during its investigation into Subversive Influences in Government to explain his role as Chief of the Army T1 and E program (Troop Information and Education) during WW II. He refused to state whether he was a communist and took the Fifth Amendment more than 10 times. However, he admitted he was born in Gordok, Russia, and stated under oath that he had set up the Institute for Social Relations which was underwritten by the American Jewish Committee. An Examination of the material recommended in Talk It Over, published by his National Institute for Social Relations, revealed numerous communists as the authors of this material.

Dr. Schreiber also said he was then head of the Washington Mental Health Association and hoped to affiliate with the National Association for Mental Health. He admitted he had given a talk on mental health and social environment at the Scientific and Cultural Conference for World Peace at the Waldorf-Astoria. This meeting was the subject of a detailed study by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, dated April 19, 1949.

Associated with Dr. Schreiber's Institute of Social Relations, according to the Washington Sunday Star, Aug. 31, 1947, were Dr. George S. Stevenson, consultant to the National Association for Mental Health and the following who have one to twenty-eight citations in reports of the House Committee on Un-American Activities: Manchester Boddy, Evans F. Carlson, Dr. Everett R. Clinchy of the National Conference of Christians and Jews; Dr. Donald DuShane, Dr. Frank P. Graham, Dr. Modest W. Johnson, Miss Katherine Lenroot, Philip Murray, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, Channing H. Tobias and Walter Wanger. Then there are Mrs. Max Ascoli, whose husband publishes the radical Reporter magazine; Barry Bingham and John Gunther of Americans for Democratic Action and Albert Deutsch, another sponsor of the Cultural Conference at the Waldorf.

To show how the web is interwoven among the various leading mental health groups, Dr. George S. Stevenson (on the letterhead of the National Mental Health Committee and on Schreiber's Institute of Social Relations) was treasurer of the World Federation for Mental Health and is consultant to the National Association for Mental Health, which includes on its 1957 revised reading list Durham Decision—A Beacon in the Dark by Dr. Schreiber.

Dr. Robert H. Felix

Dr. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, which is a branch of the U.S. Public Health Service.

The National Association for Mental Health also includes in its reading list such authors as Dr. Roma Gans, Ashley Montagu, Justine Wise Polier, Franz Alexander and Sidonie M. Gruenberg. Mrs. Gruenberg was a founder and for 30 years head of the Child Study Association of America. She also helped found the Congress of American Women, which is on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations and which is described as the leading communist women's front in this country. In addition Mrs. Gruenberg was a sponsor of the Cultural Conference at the Waldorf described in the House study as a "supermobilization of the inveterate wheelhorses and supporters of the Communist Party and its auxiliary organizations."

Then there is another publication of the National Association for Mental Health, Mental Health and the World Today, by the late Dr. Thomas A.C. Rennie, who came to this country at the age of 7 from Scotland and seemed not to value our form of government too highly. He says in this pamphlet that "if our free enterprise system is to function adequately" we must have guaranteed employment. And he chides nations as being motivated by considerations of their sovereignty. He refers frequently and deferentially to Dr. Julius Schreiber and the latter's articles on the "interdependence of democracy and mental health." Specifically he quotes from Schreiber's "interesting series of pamphlets," the same Talk It Over articles which were the subject of the Senate investigation. Dr. Rennie also recommends Dr. Goodwin Watson, one of the 3 men dropped from government service by a special Act of Congress which stopped the appropriations for their salaries.

The National Association for Mental Health recommends The Mentally Ill in introduction to the second edition by Dr. Robert H. Felix of the National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda.

In the 1957 film list published by the National Association for Mental Health, "A Child Went Forth" is described as a poetic expression of a child's day. The information is not given that the musical score to this film was written by Hanns Eisler (brother of Gerhardt Eisler of communist fame, who is now Minister of Information in the communist government of East Germany) and that the film was produced by Brandon Films, which used to advertise in The Daily Worker. Another film recommended is "The High Wall," produced by the Anti-Defamation League and narrated by Irving Pichel who has 8 citations in the 1948 Report of the California Legislature on subversive activities.

Plays on mental Health themes are recommended by the National Association for Mental Health in arrangement with the American Theatre Wing in which such prominent World Federalists as Oscar Hammerstein II and Russell Crouse are active.

If further proof of leftist orientation is necessary, there are the numerous pamphlets of the Public Affairs Committee which are recommended by the National Association for Mental Health. Maxwell S. Stewart, editor of these pamphlets, has one of the longest records of subversive activities in government annals, in addition to his record revealed in the investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. This insensitivity to radical influence in mental health circles may be accounted for by the viewpoint expressed, for instance, by Dr. George S. Stevenson in his little booklet, Education for Mental Health. There he describes a person as mentally ill who is "suspicious of others and sees an enemy, perhaps a communist, lurking behind every acquaintance, etc."

The most important publication in which the concealed purpose of the mental health movement is subtly outlined is Mental Health and World Citizenship, distributed by the National Association for Mental Health. This document says: "Principles of mental health cannot be successfully furthered in any society unless there is progressive acceptance of the concept of world citizenship." The Saturday Evening Post in an editorial dated January 11, 1958 caught the implications of this statement. Under such an assumption, the Post said, skepticism on foreign aid, for example, is supposed by the sociological fringe on the psychiatric sector to suggest "basic insecurity." And the Post continued that until the One-Worlders take over, we might as well stay crazy.

What the Post failed to detect and what makes the affair less humorous is the fact that the statement was not made by a sociological fringe but was the considered opinion of the world's leading exponents of mental health, drafted for the international conference on mental health held in London in 1948. If accepted, this "norm for mental health" could establish international socialism.

The statement that mental health is based upon an acceptance of world citizenship was drafted by Dr. George S. Stevenson, Dr. Otto Klineberg, Dr. Margaret Mead and Lawrence K. Frank, among others. Additional confirmation of the orientation of the mental health movement is found in the association of Dr. Mead and Lawrence K. Frank with Mark Zborowski whom Dr. Mead in fact placed in the Dept. of Anthropology at Columbia University. Dr. Zborowski's activities made headlines when Mrs. David Dallin testified about him before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee during its probe of the Scope of Soviet Activity in the U.S. Mrs. Dallin identified Zborowski as an NKVD agent involved in the kidnapping of Trotsky's son. She mentioned seeing him at parties with Dr. Mead. In the spring of 1958, Zborowski was picked up by the FBI as a member of the Soviet espionage system in this country!

Zborowski himself testified that he was born in Russia; had worked at a veteran's hospital in this country on a "project on pain" under a grant by the U.S. Public Health Administration; and had previously worked for the American Jewish Committee and Yivo Scientific Institute. As late as July 1955, Commentary, a monthly magazine underwritten by the American Jewish Committee, ran an announcement of a symposium on Majority-Minority Interaction in America, which included an article by Zborowski.

At the top of the mental health pyramid in this country is the National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda, Md. Its film list includes "Passion for Life," distributed by Brandon Films which has been widely recommended by the AJC. Its Reference Guide 6, revised as late as March 1958, recommends Mental Hygiene in Review by Albert Deutsch; Reference Guide 2 recommends a Public Affairs pamphlet by Justine Wise Polier; and material of the N.Y. State Dept. of Mental Hygiene whose deputy commissioner, Hyman Forstener was named in sworn testimony as a communist by Dr. Bella Dodd on Dec. 31, 1956.

There are some weird practitioners of mental health, as items in the metropolitan press reveal: The 33-year-old assistant to Dr. Rennie at Cornell-Medical Center who robbed a summer home of antiques with which to furnish his apartment for his impending second marriage (and to whose defense Dr. Rennie came); the Vienna-born psychologist, 31 years of age, who was jailed for molesting young girls in Flushing, Queens; the psychiatrist in New Jersey whose wife claims he sat on her chest and then would run to barricade himself in his "shock" room; the head of the psychology department at Roosevelt University in Chicago who hanged himself; the N.Y. psychiatrist who left a million dollars to the woman with whom he lived and who was not his wife; and the more recent story of the doctor who went under two names because he had been confined in a mental institution himself and who was tripped up by a traffic violation. Surely such obviously unbalanced persons should not have a hand in determining the definition of "mental health." And it is anyone's guess how many psychiatrists have managed to conceal their own symptoms.

Successful as the psychiatric elite have been in securing the passage of enabling legislation that has brought their goals almost within reach, yet a growing awareness and resistance on the part of the public may block the full accomplishment of the mental health movement. A proposed Act which established the direction of the mental health movement, has been widely publicized. It was revised in Sept. 1952, with introductory remarks by Dr. George S. Stevenson. The Act provided for quicker commitment procedures upon the application of a friend, relative, spouse, guardian, public welfare officer or a health officer—thus "avoiding undesirable publicity." The patient would not have to appear in court; no jury would be necessary and the court would not be bound by the rules of evidence. These provisions have aroused some intelligent opposition and criticism.

Subsequently the Alaska Mental Health Act has been enacted into law, providing that persons can be transported out of their home states and put in insane asylums in remote areas of the U.S. Only 35 members were present in the House when this bill was passed by voice vote; only 15 members of the Senate when again it passed by voice vote, June 7, 1956. It is now Public Law 830, 84th Congress, 2nd Session. Numerous states were then maneuvered into passing laws to "modernize" their mental health procedures. But the patriotic societies began to analyze the full meaning of this legislation and to urge caution all along the line. It now remains to be seen if the mental health movement can be checked, challenged and corrected.

Opposition to the widening power of the mental health elite is based on several factors. The definition of mental health is unsatisfactory so long as it has political implications. The techniques for handling mental cases are becoming brutal (shock treatment was introduced into the U.S. by Dr. Joseph Wortis, a pupil of Sigmund Freud's, and a documented communist according to Counterattack, April 8, 1955). Drug therapy is compulsive and an invasion of the person. Psychosurgery, such as lobotomies, can create permanent docility. Drug therapy and shock treatment have been used on political prisoners of communist regimes in Europe and in Asia where they are already an accepted technique to be used on persons of "unreconstructed" attitudes. Charges of "mental instability" are increasingly being made in cases where the victim disagrees with a policy in which he becomes involved.

Thus Fletcher Bartholomew, an American citizen, was put under observation in a psychiatric ward in Germany after having revealed shocking conditions in Radio Free Europe, and was sent, practically as a prisoner, to the U.S. Not too long ago Povl Bang-Jensen, who refused to turn over to the UN confidential information given him by some Hungarian refugees in strict confidence, was accused of "psychotic conduct" by a UN investigating committee, and was dismissed.

"Mental Health" is an inaccurate label for what is really a weapon being skillfully used by communist propagandists to bring about conformity to the Marxist ideology. The aim is unmistakable: non-conformists will be in actual peril of being adjudged insane!

Fantastic? Yes. But if the American people value their freedom of thought and expression, they will do well to regard as suspect every legislative proposal bearing the "MENTAL HEALTH" label.

To resist this enveloping "mental health" threat is vital to American liberty. To delay invites disaster.

It Could be So

If you can keep your head when all about you

UNESCO seeks to muddle and deceive; --- If you can trust yourself when "pinkies" doubt you

Because you love your Country and believe Its Constitution is the best that ever

Was drawn to guard the liberties of man, And that Americans must all endeavor

To keep it safe and solid if they can. . . . If you won't let the UN be your master,

If you won't make World Government your aim; If you can fight the sinister disaster

Of letting spies and traitors win the game— If you are loyal to the land that gave you

Your freedom and the chance to fight and win, And count upon its Bill of Rights to save you

From tyranny and slavery and sin. . . . If you respect your Flag and love your Maker And pray that He will guide you to do right, And do not let the first high-sounding

faker Convince you white is black and black is white—

If you stand up and say you love Old Glory And show that you're an American with guts. . . . Friend, you'd better get yourself a lawyer, For "MENTAL HEALTH" is out to prove you're NUTS!!!

Sen. Flanders Blasts Israel

Senator Ralph Flanders

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

July 30, 1958

By Sen. Ralph Flanders (Rep.) Vermont

Mr. President, this one of the series of talks on the Middle-East situation will be very brief. Its text is to be found in yesterday's news of the nearly successful endeavor to assassinate the Premier of Lebanon, Sami es-Solh, who was strongly pro-western. Since the Western world refuses to recognize the paramount concern of the Arab world with the problems posed by Israel, any pro-western statesman is a target for assassination. It was Nuri es-Said, Iraqi Premier, and his King, King Faisal, the day before yesterday and Premier es-Solh yesterday. Who will it be today or tomorrow? This situation will continue so long as the Western nations appear as the champions of Zionism. Any foreign policy which subjects our friends to assassination needs revision. Why do we not revise?

I call attention at this time to the fifth and sixth "whereases" in my resolution, Senate Concurrent Resolution 106, of July 18. These read as follows:

Whereas the expansion of the population of Israel threatens an added seizure of Arab territory; and

Whereas the overpopulation of Israel is largely financed by tax-free contributions from American citizens.

The Government of Israel will deny that it threatens added seizure of Arab territory. It is, however, established at present on seized lands. In Arab eyes that government, therefore, has no moral compunction about seizing territory. It has a record of seizure. What can be expected for the future except added seizure?

The critical element in the situation is the present and proposed population of Israel compared with the territory and resources which it occupies. I have been told by Zionists that the aim is to pack 3 million inhabitants into territory of 7,984 sq. miles, which is smaller than my own State of Vermont. Were the land rich and well-watered like our Mississippi Valley States, it would still be quite a proposition to pack them in and provide food for them. The Jews have done marvels in Palestine in the way of getting the most of agricultural product out of an unpromising terrain; but even with the best they can do with a population of 3 million that country will be bursting at its seams. When to this is added the natural increase in population, generation after generation, Israel becomes a loaded time bomb.

A direct responsibility lies at our own door for the development of this dangerous situation. When the immigration policies of Israel were directed toward making a home for refugees, it was proper to have those activities supported by tax-free American contributions. The present poli-

The approval of the President and only two of the ninety-eight Senators. A horrible thought? Yes, but it could happen!

If the American people knew this, perhaps they would demand an Amendment requiring at least a two-thirds vote of the entire membership of the Senate before any treaty or Executive agreement could become law.

A FEW ILLUSTRATIONS OF FREEDOMS LOST

1.- Private citizens may be committed to insane asylums by federal judges for political reasons and without just cause or trial by jury.

2.- The interests of American manufacturers and laborers who work in their factories have been jeopardized by GATT, an agency entered into by the State Dept. affecting the tariff laws. Many factories have been injured or closed, putting many workmen out of employment as a result of this agency, because they could not compete with nations that pay 21¢ an hour as against $1.82 paid American workmen.

3.- The States are being deprived of their Constitutional rights by federal courts. By a decision, Pennsylvania vs. Steve Nelson, the States were deprived of their right to protect themselves against subversives. This in spite of the specific reservations to the States or the people, all rights not specifically delegated to the federal government. If this right can be merely taken from the States, what rights can they hope to retain?

4.- The U.S. has lost the right to win a war. We furnished 90% of all the allied men fighting in the Korean War, yet the UN refused us the victory. For the first time in history, we not only lost a war, we lost face with the peoples of the world.

5.- The federal government has usurped the right to tax our people to support foreign governments and to draft our citizens to serve in foreign armies—even under the direction of our enemies. The federal government not only taxes us to carry on the legitimate costs of our own government but through taxation forces us to contribute to a world-wide "give-away program." Millions of us feel that much of this so-called "foreign-aid" is not helpful to either the peoples or the governments to which it is given. Yet we are forced to contribute to it.

6.- Every citizen, including the farmer, has lost the right to direct his own business affairs. Behold the farmer who planted 6 acres more of grain than the government told him to. He is being punished even though he fed it all to stock on his own farm. No longer is "a man's home his castle" or is the soil he has earned by the sweat of his brow really his own!

The above illustrations are only a few of the many that could be given to show how the individual, the State and the Nation are losing their Constitutional rights, either to the federal government or to Internationalism.

DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT!

(a) Approving patriotic efforts;

(b) Disapproving of un-American stands.

5.- Join with other patriotic persons in the community to preserve American ideals in community, State and Nation.

THE PASSING OF TWO PATRIOTS

The same mail brought sad news to Common Sense in the passing of two fine patriots: Arthur Case of Los Angeles, known and loved by many, who died suddenly Sept. 10th, and Mr. E.M. Biggers who, with his wife, was hit by a car driven by a young girl. His wife is expected to recover. Our sincerest sympathies to the families of both these patriots.

Editor

It is difficult for me to realize that I have lost my true and loyal friend, Mr. E.M. Biggers of Houston, Texas. He was one of those fine Texans, strong in body, mind and character, the type that made Texas possible in history. The Creator gave Texas inherent riches but it took men of the Biggers strength and character to develop them.

It was men of his breed who conceived and organized our Republic. Today the nation is drifting to the left because a very different type of citizen is coming from the melting pot. They don't speak our language, they know little or nothing of our history, and they care less as they say they believe in our Constitution but plan to recast it in keeping with their foreign ideologies.

For years, Mr. Biggers foresaw and studied the oncoming tragedy. He has helped in the battle in so many ways including the financial support of countless patriotic efforts. His recent letters have shown his great disappointment at the present state of the Union, especially the failure of the 85th Congress to face the facts and act.

He closed his last letter with the words—"IS THERE ANY POLITICIAN WE CAN TRUST?"

Sincerely

General Moseley

Whether they are oppressed or not, whether they are needy or not, matters not so long as they are Jews—bring them into the new Zion no matter what injustices are perpetrated on the former owners of the land. Not one penny of tax-free American money should go into this project. In fairness to American taxpayers, the Treasury must re-examine the tax-free status of contributions to the United Jewish Appeal.

I am aware, Mr President, that the opinions and conclusions which I am expressing will be classed by the Zionists as rabidly anti-Semitic. That is far from being the case. I am not anti-Semitic. The Jews of this country owe me a debt of gratitude for my humble part in stemming a wave of fascism which was gathering momentum a few years ago. I am not anti-Semitic.

Mr. President, I am pro-Semitic; but if they successfully persist in their present plans for an ingathering of the Jews of the world in an area too small to contain them; if they continue to ignore the injustices to the Arab landowners which are involved in their actions and policies so far; and if for the future they apply superheat to the pot already boiling in the Middle-East, such a wave of anti-Semitism as the Jewish race has never faced will sweep, not only this country, but the world.

Major Jewish organizations and civic groups voiced opposition to the original plan to include such a question (What is your religion?) in the census. They insisted it violated the Constitutional American principle of separation of church and state. The Census Bureau announced several months ago that because of opposition it would not ask such a question in the 1960 census. (California Jewish Voice, February 7, 1958, page 1).
